Fire Hits Colma Industrial Plant; Other Points

Hot Dry Weather Results in Fires in Many Sections of County; Butano, Devonshire Both Periled

REDWOOD CITY'S DEPARTMENT BUSY

Destructive Conflagration Sweeps Plant In San Francisco's Industrial District

The hot spell with the accompanying dry grass and fire hazards has resulted in fires throughout the state. In Redwood City the fire department has been having a busy time of it. During the past week the fire department has responded to 17 alarms. Of these nine occurring on Tuesday, the first occuring soon after 8 o'clock in the morning and the last one late in the evening. One alarm was answered on Wednesday when a grass fire was reported from the Oak Knoll district.

One of the most destructive fires of the week was reported from Colma Wednesday when the box factory of the Hamilton Mill Company was razed. The loss to the company is reported at $25,000. The flames swept the lumber yard, mill and box factory. A large supply of crates for packing lettuce was on hand in the yard, and these were swept by the flames spleading burning cinders over the whole vicinity.

The Colma fire department was assisted in fighting the fire by the departments of Daly City and San Francisco, and by hundreds of volunteer firemen. Only after a long fight were the flames subdued and the remainder of the town put out of danger from the burning sparks.

Fire In Devonshire

The clubhouse of the Devonshire Country Club was periled by a fire which swept through dry grass and brush to within ten feet of the building Wednesday morning. The fire was extinguished by the efforts of the San Carlos fire department and County Fire Warden Bert Werder. The fire was noticed by Caroline Perrin, caretaker of the club, who summoned the San Carlos department, and then battled the flames single handed until the firemen arrived. Her efforts saved the clubhouse from becoming ignited before the San Carlos department arrived. The flames swept over more than six acres of grass and brush, and had there been a wind blowing would have periled the town of San Carlos.

Butano Periled

A fire in the Butano district which periled one of the most beautiful sections of the county, was reported late Tuesday afternoon. Fire Warden Bert Werder with more than a dozen men, hurried to the scene of the blaze, and after a hard fight managed to confine the flames. The fire burned over about five acres before it was brought under control. It is said to have been started by a fallen power line.

A grass fire was reported from Menlo Park Wednesday night but was controlled by the fire department of that city. It burned over a small section on Santa Cruz avenue.

Big City Fire

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20, (UP.)—The third major fire in San Francisco in as many days, swept through a four-story brick building that covers almost half a block between Market and Mission streets in the wholesale mercantile goods district.

Damage from the latest blaze will probably mount considerably above $100,000. Nearly $1,000,000 worth of property has been destroyed in the San Francisco bay region since Sunday. There have been hundreds of fires in other parts of Northern California.

The blaze tonight damaged stocks of Breyer & Son, dealers in notions and dry goods; O'Rourke Hat Company, which occupied the upper floor of the building; and Friedberg Grunauer, leather goods company.

It started in the rear of Breyer & Son's quarters on the first floor shortly before 10 p. m., swept into the basement and then flared back to the upper floors. Nearly an hour after it was detected the fire was declared under control.

Firemen fought a successful battle to keep the flames from a tank of oil in the basement. No one was injured. Cause of the blaze was not known.

Three alarms were sounded and traffic on downtown streets was disrupted.

Fire On Campus

PALO ALTO, May 20.—(UP.)—While fellow students cheered their efforts and assisted in collecting clothing, luggage, and furniture tossed from the windows of their house, members of the Alpha Delta Phi fraternity fought a blaze which destroyed the second story of the structure at noon today.

The fire was thought to have started from a cigarette left in one of the rooms.

Damage was estimated at $5,000.

L. A. INVITES COUNTY TO 150th ANNIVERSARY

A direct invitation for San Mateo county to be represented in the great La Fiesta, celebrating the 150th birthday of Los Angeles was extended personally today on behalf of La Fiesta de Los Angeles Association by Clinton E. Skinner, a prominent native son, in company with A. S. Liguori, secretary of the local parlor of the Native Sons.

Skinner called upon members of the Board of Supervisors, and the County Chamber of Commerce of the city inviting them to personally represent the county and the city next September in Los Angeles and urging them to see that San Mateo county enters a float in the great Admission Day pioneer parade and pageant to be sponsored by the Native Sons and Daughters.

"La Fiesta de Los Angeles, starting September 4 and running through Septmber 13, inclnsive, will be one of the greatest community celebrations in all Western history. In addition to the three million people in Los Angeles county, it will be witnessed by hundreds of thousands from all over the United States. It provides an unparalleled opportunity at a comparatively small cost for each county in the state to tell the world of its romantic and historical background and its present-day resources," said Skinner. "We are particularly anxious that San Mateo county shall participate in the Admission Day event and I have been sent by the La Fiesta Association to extend the invitation in person.

"We also want San Mateo county to send its oldest pioneers to the Fiesta so that we may honor them especially. In addition we are inviting school children of the county to enter into an essay contest on California history. The winner of this contest will be the guest of La Fiesta Association with all expenses paid.

Court Fines Bring Million to State

County Reports Payments of More Than $16,000 in Fines for Year

By MELVIN LORD

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 21 (UP)—Crime may not pay, but it brought an income of $1,253,284 to California counties last year.

This habit of breaking the law resulted in the payment of a total of $16,216 in fines and penalties in San Mateo county last year according to a report issued by Ray L. Riley, state controller.

The fines were collected for everything from reckless driving to peddling without a license, and represent levies made against law violators in superior, justice and probation courts.

Throughout the state the justice court fines headed the list with a total "revenue" of this kind amounting to $850,943.84. Superior courts, with the more serious cases usually resulting in jail or prison sentences realized $105,926.28; probation courts, $16,893.17, and others, $279,484.31.

Los Angeles county led the list with the collection of $296,702.80 as a result of its large population, while Alpine county, with few people, collected only $60 in fines, and those entirely through justice court proceedings.

Taken as a possible indication that there is a "depression" in crime as well as other activities, the Riley report indicates that there was a noticable decrease in the collection of fines by both counties and municipalities.

In 1929 the 58 counties collected $1,683,151 in fines as compared with $1,253,284 last year. California cities in 1930 realized $3,564,419.87 after their judges had said "fine." The income the preceding year amounted to $4,091,602.89.

In an attempt to reduce the amount of crime in the state as indicated by the fines levied in every county and virtually every city, the state legislature has passed a bill providing for a teletype communication system to link every district in the state with the state bureau of criminal identification at Sacramento.

While the success of this system may reduce fines by making the crime path more rocky, it is expected to prove a profitable investment for society in general.

HITS CAR ON STEEP HILL; YOUTH HURT

13-Year-Old Lad Suffers Cut On Head As Result of Bump with Car

William H Alford, 13-year-old boy of this city, was seriously injured Wednesday when, while coasting down a hill on Oak Knoll Drive, he collided with a car driven by Wm. D. Roumbanis, Vista Drive, Emerald Lake. Roumbanis told Officer H. J. Fitzgerald, who investigated the accident that as he was ascending the hill, he saw three boys on bicycles top the hill, and come down toward him. One of the boys was headed directly for the car, so he swerved sharply to the right, and the boy struck the left side of the car.

The boy hit the rear left-hand door of the car and the rear fender, tearing the latter loose from the running board. He received a bad cut on the forehead and was severely bruised. The boy was taken by Roumbanis to Dr. H. A. Clattenburg, who dressed the wound and took the boy to his home, where a more detailed examination will be made when the boy has recovered from the shock.

PREHISTORIC UNCOVERED NEAR HERE

Remains of Miocene Animal Found in Sandstone of San Francisquito

Finding of bones of extinct animals encased in sandstone on the campus of the Stanford University near the head waters of the San Francisquito creek has been reported this week. The bones are said by Dr. Bailey Willis ,professor-emeritus of geology, to be those of a Miocene manatee, an extinct whale-like creature which lived in tropical seas which surrounded the North American Continent 30,000,000 years ago when the Sierra Nevada was the coastline and the present coast ridge was but a series of islands lying off the coast much as the Chanel Islands do now off the Santa Barbara coast. This creature is survived by a few degenerated types known as sea cows or manatees.

Dr. Willis stated that the Miocene manatee was a creature of the middle period of the Miocene. It is described as having hands strongly resembling human hands, but with each finger armed with a strong claw. Its chief diet is said to have been sea weed.

AMALGAMATION WITH EMERALD LAKE DIST. DISCUSSED AT MEETING

City Officials and Chamber of Commerce Officers Meet With Residents of Oak Knoll and Emerald Lake

The annexation of the Emerald Lake and Oak Knoll districts to Redwood City looms as a possibility this week following an enthusiastic meeting between residents of that district and city and chamber of commerce officials of this city held at the offices of the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce Wednesday evening.

The residents of the Emerald Lake and Oak Knoll districts were invited by the chamber of commerce to attend a meeting to which the city officials had been invited and to discuss the needs of the district, and the best means of supplying these needs.

The meeting was presided over by Carl Wagner and was attended by City Manager E. A. Rolison, Mayor Stafford, City Engineer Charles L. Dimmitt, and by members of the city council, and officers of the chamber of commerce.

It was the concensus of opinion among the residents of the outside districts that the people of those districts desired such conveniences as police and fire protection, sanitary provisions, and water supply. It was further felt that these could be more economically supplied by joining with the present municipality than by trying to provide these as a district. The members of the city council offered to the residents of the Emerald Lake district and the services of the City Manager and the City Engineer to assist them in preparing a report on the advisability of the proposed move, and of the cost of providing the residents of the district with the advantages which they desire.

It appeared to be the unanimous opinion of those present, both the residents of Redwood City and of the outside districts, that the amalgamation would be to the mutual benefit of both districts.

When the meeting adjourned it was with the understanding that it should be called again by order of Chairman Wagner for the purpose of considering the report on the costs of the proposed improvement projects.

Mystery Blasts Wreck Motor of City Fire Truck

Samples of Gasoline Taken from Trucks Indicate Addition of Yellow Substance to Fuel

Mystery continued yesterday to surround the cause of the blasts which wrecked the motor of the city's Seagrave pump engine Monday afternoon. The big engine, driven by Chick Fowler, responded to a call Monday afternoon, but when about a block from the fire house the engine litterally blew itself to pieces. Four of the cylinder heads were blown off or broken to pieces, leaving the motor a complete wreck.

It was thought at first that the crankshaft of the machine had broken and had forced the pistons through the cylinder heads. When it was found, however, that the crankshaft was not damaged, a call was sent to the Seagrave office in San Francisco. The mechanic there suggested that the department investigate the gasoline being used in the truck. A sample was taken from the tank of the truck, and was found to be a bright yellow color. Samples from other equipment of the fire department proved to contain the same yellow substance but in lesser quartities. The storage tank from which the equipment is filled contained only clear gasoline, and the police and other city cars which fill from the same tank appeared to contain only the normal gasoline.

Samples were taken by Captain Tony Prusch, and were sent by City Manager Rolison to San Francisco for analysis. It is the belief of members of the department that something has been put into the gasoline of the fire trucks with the intention of putting them out of commission. The fact that the main supply tank was not apparently included in the scheme would indicate that the substance was put in the tanks of each truck individually.

The wrecked truck was taken to the city corporation yard where it is being repaired by Brenton Werder. The gasoline from all the other trucks was drawn away and destroyed to avoid damage to the other equipment. City Manager Rolison and Fire Chief Ryan are anxiously awaiting reports on the analysis of the samples sent to San Francisco. Until the analysis is made no one can tell what caused the wreck of the motor, but it was the expressed belief of one of the oil company men that the substance had the appearance of tri-nitro toluene, the TNT of the war, a high explosive in the form of a heavy liquid soluable in gasoline.

NO FIREWORKS!

It's going to be a tough 4th of July for the young folks, according to County Fire Warden Bert Werder. Werder has announced that no fire works will be allowed in the county... The board of supervisors have ruled against the sale of fire works, and the district attorney has issued a warning to all fire wardens, constables and other law enforcement officers to be on the lookout for any infractions of the law.

San Mateo Youth Injured in Crash

Boy Crashes Rear of Trailer On Bayshore Near Belmont

William Clinite, 17, of Burlingame and a student at Stanford University, was seriously injured Tuesday night when a car which he was driving crashed into the rear of a trailer on the Bayshore highway near Belmont. The boy suffered a broken leg and other injuries.. The accident was witnessed by F. W. Crumb of this city, who took the injured youth to the Mills Memorial Hospital in San Mateo, where his condition is reported to be improving.

The accident occurred as both the truck and Clinite's car were going south on the Bayshore road.

The boy is wellknown in San Mateo and Burlingame, where he has long been active in Boy Scout work. His parents, Dr. and Mrs. Jay I. Clinite are reported to be vacationing in Seattle.

C. of C. To Hear Industrial Talk

William A. Crawford, director of industrial relations for the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, will be the speaker at the luncheon meeting of the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce at the Sequoia Hotel next Monday. Roscoe Wyatt Talks On Portola Party

Roscoe Wyatt, secretary of the San Mateo County Chamber of Commerce, spoke Wednesday before a meeting of Boy Scouts in Burlingame. He told the boys of the Portola expidition through San Mateo county of the many historical sites connected with this expidition and with the later expidition of Juan Bautista de Anza, who came from Mexico for the purpose of establishing a city on the Golden Gate after he had brought a number of colonists from Mexico to Monterey by way of the Colorado and Gila rivers, a route which he had previously discovered.

Wyatt talked on the same subject last night before the Citizens' League of Beresford Park, and also showed the county scenic film.

P. G. & E. Plans Improvements

Anticipating the rapid growth of the Redwood City territory and in connection with its plans to meet this growth, the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. this week awarded a contract to Gus Waller, local contractor, for the complete remodeling of its Redwood City office on Broadway. The contract is for $10,000 and the work will start at once.

The growth of the utility company's business on the Peninsula has been rapid during the past few years, and the quarters here have become entirely inadequate for handling the great amount of detail work that comes through the local office. At the present time there are twenty-five employees in the Redwood office, according to W. T. Kellogg, the local district manager. The plans for the improvements were approved last week by I. B. Abrams, manager of the San Jose division, which includes the Redwood City district. Mr. Adams and Mr. Charles Jordan, the publicity manager of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, were in Redwood yesterday and conferring with Manager Kellogg with regard to special publicity plans for the Peninsula, including the placing of a large sign, bearing the name of Redwood City on the huge gas container on Washington street, which is visible for many miles from either end of the new Bayshore highway.

KIWANIS CLUB HAS DANCING PROGRAM

An interesting program of juvenile dancers was furnished at the regular weekly meeting of the Redwood City Kiwanis club this week by Miss Genevieve Cunningham, who conducts a childrens' dancing class. Five numbers were presented by Miss Cunnigham's pupils.

The first presentation was little Dennis Fox in a tap dancing act, called the "Young New Yorker."

This was followed by the "Personality Pair," with Billy and Margaret Steele. "Lazy Lem," also a tap dance was presented by Phylis Rose, and was followed by a song, "Madamsolle" by Dennis Fox.

The concluding number on the program was the "Hick Number" in which Margaret Steele, Margaret Stebenne, Jewel Hinds and Jene Myers took part. The accompaniment for all the numbers was furnished by Miss Rosalie Carrington at the piano.

The numbers were well presented and were much enjoyed by the Kiwanians.

Another interesting feature of the meeting was a harmonica quartet, consisting of Jim Wood, Bill Falstick, Henry Nelson and Harold Estees. All four are pupils at the McKinley School, and played numbers in a very capable manner.

The chairman of the meeting was Gilbert Ferrell.

Memorial Day

Memorial Day — May 30th — each year finds a grateful people, ever more eager to pay homage to the dead and the living in whose memory and honor the holiday is set apart.

Memorial Day is dear to the hearts of our citizens because of what it stands for, and the memories that it unfolds. As we get further removed from the great Civil War we realize the aims and high purposes for which the war was fought. Decoration Day furnishes us an opportunity to pay homage to the heroes of three wars. Nothing can be more beautiful than the impressive and patriotic ceremonies that mark this day. By honoring the dead we pay tribute to the living.

General John A. Logan founded Memorial or Decoration Day, and so long as this nation endures it will be a solemn task, yet one of pleasure to go into our cemeteries and strew flowers upon the graves of nature's noblemen.

Yes, we will remember. To forget would be a traitorous act.

Success in Habit Changes

Success or failure in life, to those given to generalizing, has often been due to such frequently quoted factors as hard work or its opposite; faith in an ideal or the lack of the same, or to good or bad habits. There are many other factors that could reasonably be advanced, but habits probably play one of the most important parts. During the World War the crushing defeats of the Russian armies by Von Hindenburg's hosts were attributed by some military experts as much to the difference between Teutonic and Muscovite habits as the superiority of German generalship and arms. General Pershing in his recent memoirs inferred that Yankee adaptability accounted in part for the astonishing success of the American forces in the critical battles at Chateau Thierry, Belleau Woods, St. Mihiel and the Meuse-Argonne.

In every day life, George Bernard Shaw, noted British playwright and author, has illustarted the force of this reasoning. "I noticed in my youth," said the famous iconoclast, "that my father ate indiscriminately, consuming large quantities of meat; that he smoked all day, drank alcohol and took no form of exercise. I saw that most men have the same habits as my father and most men are failures. A complete change of habits might produce success, I thought, anyway, it seemed worth trying."

From that day, Shaw ate no meat. He foreswore not only alcohol, but also tea and coffee, which he regards as only slightly less harmful. He constructed a revolving cabin in which he could follow the beneficent rays of the sun through all the daylight hours. He also saw to it that he had sufficient healthful exercise.

Shaw is regarded by many as an extremist, but his record of accomplishment and his high degree of physical well-being at the age of seventy are convincing arguments of the soundness of his philosophy.

Fires and Losses

The burning of the San Jose court house, with the destruction of thousands of dollars of public records recalls a few conditions existing in Redwood City's municipal affairs.

The city engineer's office, for instance, is located in an old frame building, and is accessable only by a long and narrow flight of old wooden stairs. In case of fire it would be practically impossible to remove to safety the thousands of dollars worth of maps and data which are kept in that office. The replacement of this material, were it to be destroyed, would cost the city many thousands of dollars.

In the same old frame building is the office of the city attorney, who has in his office all the records of the legal proceedings of the city government.

In another wooden building, how be it is a somewhat safer structure, is the police office, and all the records of the police department —the finger prints of all who have been arrested, the card indices, descriptions of stolen property and a list of persons wanted.

In both of these buildings, the chance of fire is great, and in the event of a conflagration, the loss to the city would be heavy. All of the departments should be located in a city hall suitable for a city of the size of Redwood City and designed to house the various city offices.

Redwood City is paying out every month rent for the city engineer's office and that of city attorney which should be invested in a city hall. These departments should be supplied with rooms where the chance of a fire has been reduced to a minimum. If this cannot be done immediately then a safer location should be found for the records of city offices. Delays in these matters are always likely to be expensive.

Have Confidence in the Good Town of Redwood

Have confidence in the good town of Redwood City. View the future of your town of Redwood City. View the future of your town through the eyes of optimism. You certainly have every reason to do so.

There are times of depression all through the history of the development of civilization. Worry doesn't help to lift the cloud, but sure, energetic work does. Take an inventory — look the situation square in the face and you'll find that things are not so dismal as you had perhaps supposed.

The year of 1931 will not be a peak year in a boom of prosperous conditions but is a year of exceptional opportunities for people and success can be wrought in this year as in other years for those who work instead of resorting to grumbing.

Redwood City is coming back into her own, faster than you may anticipate, still faster if you play your part in the scheme of town building.

The Thrill Cult

In a few weeks the public will find another incentive for buying Monday's newspapers, listing week-end traffic deaths and drownings at bathing resorts. They will reach appalling numbers this year. The age of miracles is not this age.

Remembering the death toll of former years there are many motorists and bathers who are now vowing to risk neither life nor property during the approaching motoring and swimming season. Some will keep that vow; others will break it, perhaps with tragic consequences.

Most traffic accidents and drownings are inexcusable. Usually they can be attributed to carelessness or recklessness. "Safety First" must come from within the individual. If he thirsts for thrills, danger signals are accepted as a dare. So let providence protect the thrill hunter and beach guards, crossing signals and highway warnings protect the cautious.

Publicity and Misdeeds

Part of the penalty for misdeeds is publicity. When someone is taken into the courts on a warrant the matter goes into the public's hands. Newspaper publicity is a natural consequence.

Frequently, because of very good motives, people will request that this or that be smothered. A relative, perhaps, has run afoul of the law. He faces a specific charge. His arrest deeply grieves the members of his family. Out of consideration for others, a newspaper will be asked kindly to overlook the matter. It is unfortunate for solicitous relatives that a paper deals in news. Happenings of the day are its stock and trade, for which readers pay.

When a person commits a misdeed he should realize that it will end in publicity eventually and that those close to him are apt to suffer from publication of his wrong doing. A paper is sometimes blamed because of the fact that it prints the man's unlawful activities. Yet, when one analyzes the matter, it falls to the erring person to consider his dear ones, not a newspaper.

If publicity is painful it should be blamed on the miscreant, not upon a paper that prints the news of his predicament.

Buy A Poppy

More than 250,000 red memorial poppies are expected to be sold throughout California tomorrow, "Poppy Day," by 20,000 members of the American Legion Auxiliary. These poppies are every one the work of some disabled veteran, and the money taken in by their sale is for those boys who went into the war strong, robust young men, and who came back as wrecks. Each popy bears a small tag bearing the insignia of the America Legion and of its Auxiliary. This tag is the guarantee of the genuiness of the poppy and the cause for which it is sold.

As a further protection for the public, all women selling the Legion and Auxiliary poppy will wear distinctive badges with the Auxiliary's name in large letters. To make sure that they are purchasing an authentic veteran-made poppy and are giving the entire sum of their contribution to veteran relief work every citizen should buy their poppies only from women wearing these badges. Every Auxiliary worker is a volunteer worker and every penny given them goes directly into the Auxiliary funds for the relief of the needy disabled and dependents."

As Clear As Mud

Washington has a few wise observers who can tell you far in advance how the elections are coming out. One of them says that President Hoover will be renominated, but: "The answer depends chiefly—almost wholly—on how long this business depression lasts." If prosperity gets under way, he argues, Hoover will ride along on its waves, but if the slump continues—ah, then, he refuses to be responsible for a direct answer. Fine journalism—it reminds us of the riddle about the age of Ann.

"If the American institutions are good enough for Americans, why should Americans tolerate in America the spreading by outsiders of propaganda directed toward the overthrow by force and violence of their government because aliens desire it changed?" —JAMES J. DAVIS, Secretary of Labor.

GAY ADVENTURERS

CONCERNING THE ACTION AND CHARACTERS

SHEILA ALLEN, bound for Europe in a tourist cabin, has a cabinmate,

CONSTANCE KERR, a millionaire's daughter, who is her twin in looks. Sheila, after years in a rural town, is seeking adventure.

She has refused to marry her guardian, YOUNG DOCTOR MALCOM BAXTER. Constance tells Sheila she is Heaven-sent-a means of escape from a terrible mess.

Constance is fleeing from her husband, THE COUNT DE BELLEFONTE, whom she married that morning.

She consented to marry him after a quarrel with HARRY EDMONDS, with whom she is desperately in love.

His letters begging her forgiveness are kept from her by her mother. She finds them immediately after her marriage. Realizing that she can never be the Count's wife, she takes passage for Europe at once. Harry is in England.

She begs Sheila to impersonate her in Paris for a few days, while she seeks Harry in London, to try to find a way out of her muddle.

Sheila, scenting adventure agrees.

Constance gives Sheila her clothes and coaches her for the role she is to play. A first-class passenger.

TOMMY FITZGERALD, an old beau of Constance's, sees Sheila and hails her as Constance. Sheila tells him he has made a mistake.

At Southampton Constance leaves the ship as Sheila Allen, with all of Sheila's effects, including her passport.

At Harve, Fitzgerald sees Sheila with Constance's passport and she says she is the heiress, and explains the tourist passage as payment of a bet. A strange woman embraces her as an old friend.

Chapter 13.

Sheila goes on to Paris, fearful that her masquerade will be detected, yet managing to maintain it.

"So This Is Paris!"

When Tommy Fitzgerald's motor-car drew up before the Palace Hotel in Paris, Sheila had not yet learned Myra's surname, or her status in Constance Kerr's social life, and, although that worried her considerably, she forgot the situation in the excitement of her first experience with luxury. Never in her most extravagant day-dreams had she imagined anything like this.

For a moment she half-expected some one to rush up and denounce her as an imposter. She could fairly hear an excited French voice crying: "You say you are Constance Kerr? Nonsense! I have known her from childhood. You are trying to trade on your resemblance to her."

But nothing of the sort happened. Instead, the name of Constance Kerr had a magical effect on the hotel attendents. Porters whisked Sheila's bags from the car, and, in a jiffy, she was conducted to a beautiful suite of rooms. The manager was bowing before her and saying: I thought that you would prefer this suite, Miss Kerr. The Priness Renouarda reserved it by wire last night from Nice, but I will put her elsewhere."

The thought of snatching a reservation from a princess filled Sheila with consternation, and, at the same time, she wanted to laugh. A few weeks ago she had been little Sheila Allen, living quietly, simply. Now she was a person of importance, some one to be pleased and waited upon. The adventure she had longed for was hers, with a vengeance!

So she restrained her natural impulse to say: "Oh please don't inconvenience any one on my account," and, with an assumption of Constance Kerr's arrogant assurance, said carelessly: "This will be all right. Send me a maid, please. I didn't bring mine."

"I will send you the one who attended you last time," the manager said, as he bowed himself out.

Soon there was a tap at the door. Sheila opened it, to find a uniformed maid standing there. The maid smiled, in a hesitant fashion, and said: "Bon jour, Mademoisella Kerr."

Sheila gulped. Here was another problem. Of course, every one would expect her to speak French like a native. And she could manage only a few commonplace phrases. It would never do to let the maid rattle on in French. Sheila decided on a bold stroke, and said causually: "Do you speak English to enable you to serve a lady who speaks very little French? I have a friend who wants a maid, and I thought, perhaps, you would do."

The problem was solved. The maid explained, in a mixture of French and English, that such a position was exactly what she wanted. She would love to go to America, but her English — would it do? Sheila pondered. "Tell you what," she said. "I'll talk English to you, and maybe you'll learn enough to get by."

The maid was most grateful, and Sheila thanked her stars that she had skirted another crisis. As for keeping her promise to the girl, who had taken the proposition in good faith, she would worry about that when the time came.

While the maid unpacked, Sheila wandered about her bedroom and sitting-room. The beauty, the luxury of her surroundings fascinated her. As she stood before the great marble mantelpiece, studying the exquisite tapestry that hung above it, she compared her life with that of Constance Kerr. And now, if only for a few days, she was to have all the things that she had wanted—all the things that Constance Kerr had always had, and had taken for granted. Well, she would make the most of her good fortune. Few girls were lucky enough to have their dreams come true, in Paris, of all places!

She made a leisurely toilette, and it was not until the afternoon was half over that she was ready to go out.

Just then the maid appeared to say that "Meester Feetsgerald and Messus Dodge" had come. Myra Dodge! Sheila had a feeling of relief and anxiety combined — relief at knowing who Myra was, for she now recalled hearing Constance speak of her, and anxiety at remembering that Constance had characterized her as "a feline, if ever there was one."

But Tommy was calling: "Come along Constance. Let's go and eat. I've been telling Myra that you know all the interesting places, where you can get real French food and see some sights. Not that she deserves anything at our hands, for she's kept us waiting for ages while she dolled up."

As Myra Dodge and Tommy entered her sitting-room, Sheila smothered an hysterical giggle. Interesting places! French food! "Not today, Tommy," she said. "Some other time. I ate so much on the boat that I gained three pounds. I'm dieting until I get back to my usual weight."

But Tommy would not be put off. "Won't take 'no' for an answer," he said. "If you don't want to eat, come along any way and watch me. Let's go to the place you took Jed Holland to. He told me all about it. Said you were crazy about the food. All sorts of queer dishes. The darndest things I ever heard of. Snails, with delicious garlic sauce, and eels fried in olive oil, and some sort of devil-fish. Squid, I think he called it.

Sheila started. Snails! Garlic sauce! Squid!

"No," she said faintly. I'm dieting, I tell you. Run along, and I'll see you later."

Myra and Tommy departed sulkily, and the door had hardly closed behind them when the telephone-bell rang. The maid answered. She turned to Sheila, smilingly. The Count de Bellefonte is calling. He says——"

LONDON, (UP)—Royal Air Force airplanes are aiding archaeologists in their search for Roman remains on the Scottish border.

Early Botanist To Be Honored

PHILADELPHIA, May 21 (UP) — Two thousand invitations to famous botanists and horticulturists of this country and Europe have been extended for the 200th anniversary next month of the founding of the first botanic garden in America.

The celebration is in honor of John Bartram, who in 1765 was appointed by King George II. as the "Botanist Royal of the American Colonies."

His gardens still stand along the banks of the muddy Schuykill river as part of the city park system.

Indians Helped

The Indians helped Bartram to collect his rare plants and trees, many of which are still growing, and many of the men who toiled in Independence Hall to frame the republic journeyed from Philadelphia to the country to inspect the marvels of his garden.

Bartram was born in Darby in 1699 and in 1731 purchased the farm where his garden now stands. As his interest in horticulture grew he travelled to every section of the country in search of rare plants, vines and trees. Some of his booklets form the first geographical studies ever made of the new world.

Among the distinguished guests invited are the Duke of Portland, the Duke of Bedford, the Viscount Ullswater and Colonel F. R. Durham.

First Elephant Exhibited in 1797

SALEM, Mass., May 20 (UP)—Now that circus days are here it may interest some folks to learn that the first elephant, the "celebrated Buffon," made its debut in this country in the spring of 1799.

On exhibition at the Essex Institute, a museum here, is the original poster announcing that "the greatest natural curiosity ever presented to the curious" will be on display at the Market House from sunrise to sundown, every Day in the Week." The date on the poster is August 29, 1797.

Brough from Bengal

The announcement, now wrinkled and time-worn, reveals that "the most respectable animal in the world" was first placed on exhibition in Philadelphia in the spring of 1797.

The elephant was brought to this country from Bengal aboard the ship "America," commanded by Captain Jacob Crowninshield, famous Salem shipmaster. Landed at New York in April, 1797, it was sold by Captain Crowninshield for the sum of $10,000.

Though referred to in the announcement as a "mere colt," the elephant was four years old and weighed slightly more than 3,000 pounds.

He knows where
Fire may strike

You may never see him. But he's working now to protect your life and property—the Fire Prevention Engineer. Who can estimate the thousands of lives he and his co-workers have saved; the millions in property loss prevented?

This new "science" of fire-prevention—first launched and continuously supported by insurance companies—is but 27 years old. Yet average national fire insurance rates have been reduced by 30 per cent!

Fire-fighters, too, have adopted scientific methods. Commissioners and fire-department chiefs now regard prevention as one of their first duties. They train their men to recognize and remove fire hazards; and, knowing that most disastrous fires are caused by carelessness, give freely of their time to educational work.

In this community and throughout California, fire-prevention directly concerns every man, woman and child. And so Bank of America, in the interest of all Californians, lends its staunch and active support.

MENLO PARK

Protests against the improvement of streets in the section of Menlo Park east of the railroad track representing approximately 24 per cent of the property involved and were overruled by the city council at its meeting here Tuesday evening. After overruling the protests of the objecting property owners the council proceeded to order the street improvements made. Bids for the project will be received by th ecouncil on June 2.

The work is proposed to be done under the street improvement acts of 1911 and 1915. The approximate cost of the average 50-foot lot would be as follows: Pine and Cherry streets $125, plus sewer, incidentals and a portion of the intersections and side streets; Oak Grove avenue, southwest of Laurel, $115, plus items on Pine; Northeast of Laurel $65, plus incidentals. On corner lots fifty feet of the 150 will be assessed.

A mass meeting of the property owners had been held about two weeks ago at which time the property owners voted 35 to 5 in favor of the improvements.

Attorney Arthur H. Redington appeared at the meeting to protest the work on behalf of Trinity Episcopal church on the ground that the improvements were too expensive a type and would result in a hardship to the church. E. H. Weir, treasurer of the church, and Rev. Ralph Smith, the pastor, also appeared to protest the proceedings.

Attorney James T. O'Keefe in his usual forceful and able manner spoke in favor of the improvements, maintaining that it would be for the best interests of the town to have the work done as contemplated.

Live Oak avenue was extended from its present terminus to Univirsity drive by an order of the city council. There were no protests received to this improvement, and the ordinance declaring the road a public thoroughfare was introduced by the council. Final action on this matter will be taken at the next meeting o the city council.

The Stanford Park Associatiaon is to give a dinner dance in Cafe de Paris on the highway Monday evening, May 25, in appreciation of the satisfactory completion of the street improvements in that part of the city. The dinner will start at 7:15 p. m. A large crowd of enhusiastic boosters for improvements are to be present.

The Sacred Heart Academy will close on June 11 with appropriate exercises. In the morning of that date the college graduates of the institution in San Francisco will arrive and be given their degrees on the grounds of the academy by Archbishop Hanna. In the afternoon the Archbishop will award diplomas to the high school graduates, fourteen in number. Among the graduates will be Miss Carmel O'Keefe of Menlo Park, who has majored in music and Romanic languages. Miss O'Keefe will attend the College of the Sacred Heart in San Francisco for a full course next semester.

W. E. Monroe, the real estate broker, has moved his offices from the Maloney block to a building opposite the grammar school building on the highway. The new offices will be the finest in town.

Mrs. George Murray and her son, George, have taken a house on the highway. They have moved from their Mills avenue home.

M. A. Harris has disposed of his property on the highway, near Menlo Park, and has invested heavily in Palo Alto property. He recently purchased lands worth $60,000. He is to improve this holding to the extent of $10,000.

Grand Trustee Samuel M. Shortridge and B. Larrecou and Mayor Weeden left on Sunday for the meeting of the Grand Parlor of Native Sons that convened at Del Monte on Monday. D. E. O'Keefe left Tuesday afternoon for the scene of the convention. Weeden and Larrecou are delegates, while O'Keefe is an alternate. He goes to assist Shortridge in his fight for re-election as trustee.

Captain Whittaker and his brave firemen did splendid work Monday in subduing a fierce grass fire that started back of Holy Cross cemetery. For a time the Stanford campus was threatened.

Sing Wong, arrested some time ago by Chief Love for having a still on his premises in Chinatown, plead guilty before Judge Hoss Monday and was sentenced to pay a fine of $250. The articles confiscated were sold for $57.89. Wong did not appear. He was represented by Attorney Gloria who entered the plea.

School Swimmers To Gather Here

Swimmers from seven high schools in the bay region will gather in the Sequoia Union High School pool this Saturday afternoon and evening for the annual North Coast Section swimming championships. Coach James Eva, Cherokee swim mentor, as chairman, is in charge of arrangements for the affair.

The high school teams entered are: Palo Alto, who won the title last year and is defending the championship; Berkeley high, titleholders in its county league; Sequoia high, runner-up last year to Paly; Alameda, who has already defeated Sequoia, and Tamalpias, San Jose, and San Mateo.

For the first time this year it has been announced that a complete list of 130-pound events will be on the program along with the varsity division. The qualifying heats will be run off in the Cherokee pool Saturday afternoon, while the finals will be held at 8 o'clock that evening. Because it has proved too grueling for high school competition, the 440-yard race will be dropped from the schedule of events this year. Coach Eva announces that the 75-yard medley race has been selected to take the place of the 440 and will be seen for the first time in N. C. S. competition.

The feature events of the swim will be the sprint races, which will be a toss-up between the dash stars of three institutions. Frank Goldthwaite, who won both 50 and 100-yard dashes for the Cherokees last year in the P. A. L., will clash with Godman of Paly, who defeated him in record-breaking times this year in both events. Alameda stars, Triola and Fitting, will also compete.

Dick Martin, who successfully clipped five seconds off the league record for the 220-yard race in the P. A. L. this year, will oppose Draper of Palo and Triola, the Alameda "iron man." Mratin has proved himself faster than both of the opposing stars and should take the event for the Cherokees.

Berkeley will be a school to be feared by the three threat school of the meet, Sequoia, Paly, and Alameda. Paly will have its sprint star, Henry Godman, and also Griffin in the sprints, while Draper will handle the 220.

Captain Kalmar, Paly diver, is favored to take his favorite event.

MERCED BUS TRAGEDY RESULTS IN SAFETY MOVE

By HOMER L. ROBERTS

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 21 (UP)—The recent school bus tragedy at Merced should focus the attention of every school district in California on the condition of their school busses and the dependability of the drivers.

This is the conclusion of Victor Killick, statistician of the state division of motor vehicles, who says that the responsibility of school boards does not end with the appointment of a competent school bus driver.

"Constant vigilance is required to see that the bus is in good mechanical condition and that the driver does not become careless," he said.

"The lives of seven little children is too costly a price to pay for poor equipment and an unreliable operator," said Killick.

The motor bus is playing an increasingly large part in the transportation of California school children, a checkup of the state department of education shows.

There are now approximately 400 school busses being operated in this state, carrying a total of more than 50,000 children to and from school daily. In San Mateo county 415 children are transported, 410 being carried either in school-owned or contract busses.

"California has been fortunate in having very few school bus accidents," said Killick. "This due to the fact that most of the drivers are very competent. However, regardless of his competence, every driver should be checked at frequent intervals.

"He may become careless, through sickness, worry or other trouble. His eyesight may deteriorate and his efficiency as a driver be lowered. At all times his physical condition should be the best and his mental attitude such that his is thoroughly imbued with the responsibility attached to his position.

"The motto, 'Children should be as safe in the school bus as they are in the school room' is a common one in California, and as a result of the Merced tragedy, stringent measures should be taken to make the statement a fact."

OREGON STATE ASKS RECORD RECOGNITION

CORVALLIS, Ore., May 20 (UP)—Oregon State college authorities have sent an application to Alonzo A. Stagg, chairman of the records committee, for recognition of the new world intercollegiate record in the shuttle relay race made by state college quartet in a duel meet with University of Oregon.

The four runners—Ken Martin, Jack DuFrane, Marsh Dunkin and Bob Prentiss — eclipsed the mark of 1:1.8 made by Ohio state in 1929 at Columbus, Ohio, by two-tenths of a second. All timers caught the team at 1:1.6.

The wind was blowing south, aiding two of the runners, but the others raced against it to offset any advantage, college authorities said.

OPENS LARGEST COURSE

MEMPHIS, May 20 (UP)—Clarence Saunders, nationally prominent chain store operator, opened his private golf course built on his 300 acre estate here as a public course recently. The course, which is 7,010 yards long, is reputedly one of the longest courses in the country.

Boys' Chorus Wins In "Y" Competition

The Redwood City boys' chorus won a first and second at the choral competition of the Californiad of the Young Men's Christian Associations of Northern California on Saturday evening when they sang at the Grace Methodist Church in San Francisco. For this affair, the boys were divided into two groups, thirteen in the younger and twelve in the older. The competition was very keen to both classes.

In the older boys' group the San Mateo county Y. M. C. A., which the Redwood City bays' chorus was represented, took first with 254 points out of 300 possible, the Park Presideo Y. M. C. A. second with 230, and the Chinese Y. M. C. A. with 220 points. In the younger boys' class the Chinese Y. M. C. A. won first with 245 poinuts, San Mateo County Y. M. C. A. second with 230 points, and the Park Presidio Y. M. C. A. with 220 points.

Twelve gold medals will be awarded to the boys and their leader, Herman Philips, in the near future. This club which was organized by the local Y. M. C. Week at the Capitol

By MELVIN LORD

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 21 (UP)—The 1931 session of the California state legislature has passed into history, and with it the memories of a hectic final week in which much important legislation was enacted.

After one of the most bitter controversies of the session, the oil conservation measure of Senator Will R. Sharkey, Martinez, finally were sent to Governor Rolph with the approval of both houses.

Amended in the assembly to provide for the election of the five oil and gas commissioners by the oil operators instead of appointment by the governor, the bill was passed otherwise untouched. The senate concurred in the amendment.

Passage of the bill was hailed by certain California oil operators as a step towards the stabilization of the industry and a means of preventing future gasoline price wars. The commission created by the bill is charged with striking a balance between supply and demand through curtailment by proration and other means.

The second oil bill is aimed at so-called "town lot" drilling, would prevent oil well drilling within 100 feet of a property line or highway, and not less than 150 feet from a new or producing well.

Considered the most important of Governor Rolph's reorganization bills, the measure divorcing the division of motor vehicles from the department of public works was passed by both houses. The bill, by Senator Roy Fellom, San Francisco, provides for a separate motor vehicle department to include divisions of enforcement and registration.

Governor Rolph now has before him a bill which would abolish the gallows in California and substitute the lethal chamber as a means of executing condemned murders. The measure was passed by the assembly with an impressive majority after having skimmed through the upper house with just the necessary 21 votes.

After having suffered a temporary relapse from the economy program sponsored early in the session, the senate finance committee began swinging the axe during the final week and in one stroke killed a series of bills giving salary increases to numerous state officials.

After having been the target of a deluge of criticism, a measure by Senator Bert A. Cassidy, Auburn, exempting mining stock from the provisions of the corporate securities act, was killed in the assembly mines and mining committee. Opponents declared the bill would have opened the door for the sale of "wildcat" mining stock.

San Francisco again tasted defeat in its fight for control of the harbor when the senate, by a vote of 29 to 5, refused approval of a bill creating a port district to replace the board of state harbor commissioners, and placing the harbor government reins entirely in the hands of the district. The state would have retained power only to appoint the trustees.

While the legislature has adjourned, many of the lawmakers will be busy throughout the next two years inasmuch as a series of investigations into everything from education to water conservation were authorized by vote of both houses.

DANCING RULED AS SPORT

HARTFORD, Conn., (UP)—Dancing is now recognized as a sport in Connecticut. A measure adding it to a list of permitted Sunday sports has received favorable action in the General Assembly.

DAMARISCOTTA, Me., (UP) — Dr. Neill Parsons was notified recently that his automobile was in a Los Angeles, Calif., garage, with $33 due for storage. The car was stolen from the yard of his home here three years ago.

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore, (UP) —A lot on which taxes are charged to Governor Julius L. Meier, was sold for $2 at a county tax sale.

...She'd have her mother cook with ELECTRICITY

"RIGHT NOW when I need the most care and attention, mother should spend almost all her time with me.

"But just when I want her, she has to be in the kitchen. If she would only let an electric range cook her meals and daddy's automatically, she wouldn't need to stay in the kitchen—she could be with me."

It's easy to have perfect cooking without the usual bother of watching in the kitchen—when you cook with electricity. And that's because of the time and temperature controls. You simply place the food in the oven, say at one o'clock, and set the controls. At three o'clock the meal starts cooking. At six, the electricity turns off. The insulated oven keeps the food hot until you are ready to serve it. Think how nice this will be when company is coming for dinner on a day when you want to be free during the whole afternoon.

Then too, cooking with electricity is economical. The cost for current averages 1c a meal per person. Moreover, cooking elements are faster today—as fast as you'd want them.

A small down payment places the electric range of your choice in your kitchen, ready to use. Come into our office or a dealer's store and see the beautiful new electric ranges.

County Low In Running Cost Of Goverment

San Mateo Near Bottom of List in Per Capita Cost In State

By RUSSELL P. PENNYCOOK

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 21 (UP)—The cost of county government in San Mateo county represented an expenditure of $38.26 for every man woman and child in the county.

This figure is announced by state controller Ray L. Riley, based upon a compilation just completed of all county disbursements for various governmental purposes.

These include general government, such as county officers, courts and boards of supervisors; protection to person and property; conservation of health; sanitation and promotion of cleanliness; highways, bridges, etc.; charities and corrections; education, recreation, and payment of interest.

Alpine county with apopulation of 241, led the state in per capita cost of government with a figure of $251.58. Del Norte county was next with $113.18, and Glenn county third with $80.11.

The per capita cost in the three largest centers of population was: Los Angeles county $47.59, San Francisco county (including county and municipal costs) $67.44 and Alameda county $37.69.

The lowest per capita cost of any county in the state for county government was that of Sacramento county—$31.76.

Per capita costs for municipalities reported by Riley show the cost of Los Angeles to be $34.86 for cities with more than a million population. Three cities reported a cost of $32.55, while 135 cities reported $22.90. Forty-five cities under 1,000 population showed a cost of $16.11.

"The major part of expenditures for each of the above segregations of municipalities covers highways, police and fire protection," Riley reported. "Cities from five to ten thousand operated most advantageously, their reports indicating adequate consideration for safety, sanitation and recreation, while cities of less population with a smaller per capita have sacrificed one or more of the above functions."

OREGON NOW LEADS IN TULIP CULTURE

SALEM, Ore., May 20 (UP) — Oregon has become the leading tulip growing state in the Union, according to a nation-wide survey requested by Oregon State College extension service.

The report showed that of the plantings and productions of 125 growers from tulip growing states for 1930, Oregon reported a harvest of more than three times her nearest competitor, Colorado, and nearly half of that reported from the entire nation.

MAJORITY VOTERS EXEMPT

DYERSBURG, Tenn. (UP) — When an election or a special representative in the county court was held here 300 cast ballots, yet only 43 voters had paid their poll tax. The other ballots were cast by persons over 50 years old, who were exempt from paying the tax.

Liquor Load Halted Smuggling

DOUGLAS, Ariz., (UP)—Juan Molina betrayed his intent to smuggle liquor to the United States in a peculiar manner. He crawled into a hole in a fence on the international line and stuck in the hole because five quarts of mescal on his person made him too big for the hole

SOW SETS BIRTH RECORD

GOOD NEWS

Turkey, home of the famous Smyrna fig, has lost the world fig market to California, declares this man, R. H. Cunningham, who returned to San Francisco this week on the liner Shinyo Maru. "The California fig, on account of its size and superior quality," Cunningham said, "has usurped the place in world markets formerly held by the Smyrna product. Cunningham, a Connecticut journalist, has just completed a two months' survey of agricultural conditions in Turkey.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute.

We offer you only the best of coal produced—coal that will give you the greatest of satisfaction, and make you come back again for a repeat order.

The defendant in the action is Victor Pacquet, San Francisco cigar dealer. It is alleged by the plaintiff that on February 4 Hansen was riding with Pacquet, and that the latter failed to heed the pleas of his passenger for a reduction of speed but that he drove at a high rate of speed and crashed into a tree, resulting in the death of Hansen.
